

CIR 865 PROJECT OF THESIS II

Workload: 60h

Credits: 04

Nature: Mandatory PhD

Professors: Tarcizo Afonso Nunes; Antônio Lacerda Filho; Marco Antônio Percope de Andrade

Discipline Syllabus: The PhD title gives to the student the opportunity to participate in defense of theses, but there is no formal training regarding this special task. The role of the examiner requires the individual to have knowledge and constant practice in the methodology of research, biostatistics, bioethics and scientific writing, which are the pillars of scientific research. The purpose of this course is to give the PhD student the opportunity to participate in masters' degree qualification. To take part of these sessions allows the PhD student to exercise the capacity for argumentation and discussions. After each qualifying session, the PhD students attending this session (usually 3 students) will meet with the mentor of the discipline in order to discuss the performance of each one in the session, possibly with videos made during the qualification sessions. All students enrolled in the doctorate must attend the course. Participation in the sessions is a prerequisite for the application for a PhD qualification.

Bibliographic References:

Metodologia Científica para a Área da Saúde - Sonia Vieira Redação Científica - Sebastião Gusmão